FORMAL CHARGES FILED AGAINST GREGORY LEWIS

Denver District Attorney Mitch Morrissey has formally charged a man accused of attacking a woman in Denver, while he was on the run from a pending criminal case in Massachusetts involving a sexual assault on a child.

Gregory Lewis (dob: 02-05-88) is charged with attempted first-degree murder (F2), three counts of sexual assault (F2 and F3), two counts of first-degree assault (F3) and aggravated robbery (F3).

The charges allege that on October 5, 2014, Lewis was in Denver and made arrangements to meet the victim, and then viciously attacked her, sexually assaulted her and robbed her at gunpoint. Lewis was identified as a suspect in this case, two other cases in Colorado, and a series of attacks in other parts of the country. He was taken into custody in New York earlier this week.

Because he was originally wanted as a fugitive from Massachusetts, he will likely be extradited there first.
